Leading Conservative Groups Agree: It's Time to Reform the U.S. Sugar Program

Leading conservative groups agree that Congress should reform the Depression-era sugar program. Citing it as a prime example of a government-run subsidy program that interferes with the free market, drives up consumer costs and weakens U.S. economic competitiveness, the following groups are calling on Congress to take action and enact U.S. sugar reforms.

The Coalition for Sugar Reform is an alliance of consumers, food and beverage manufacturers, trade advocates, environmental groups, taxpayer watchdog organizations, responsible government advocates, think tanks and other interests. Our objective is to reform the federal government's intrusive, inefficient, restrictive and outdated sugar program – a decades-old subsidy that has repeatedly failed to provide adequate supplies of sugar to the U.S. market.
